A NEW NOTE IN OUR PIANO MUSIC

Charles T. Griffes a Composer of Individuality Whose Writings Are Strong, Vital and Modern—A Discussion of His “Three Tone-Pictures” and “Fantasy Pieces”

In its inquiry a month or so ago among a large group of prominent music publishers in New York, MUSICAL AMERICA was able to find out what American concert songs had found favor, and could arrive at some statistical conclusion as to the observer of matters musical has not the orchestra which gives him the nation.

Tagebuch,” “Buntes Blatter” songs aplenty. Where are the and an early Sonata, pieces,” Op. 6. I do not believe the observer in the concert halls. Lyceum, in the city of New York, I have a Richard Strauss, a Max Reger, a Sigmund von Hausegger, which gives him the nation.

To the American public, the effort of Henry Holden Huss had not gone unheeded, for he had put to his credit a number of worthy lent pieces. Henry Holden Huss has written him a letter, in which music ended with Beethoven that is big and commanding, or as soft as a summer breeze. It is a veritable bacchanal. Mr. Alcock - it is the furtherance of expression he has gained in the world.
